[illegible] WHIG.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1839.

Elijah L. Allen. This gentleman the talented and popular Representative of Bangor has come in for a full share of abuse from some contemptible scribbler for the Argus, whose effusion is honored (!) with the first place under the editorial head of that "degraded" press, as F. O. J. Smith appropriately denominates it.

Mr. Allen is too well known, and his character for talents, honesty, and integrity is too highly appreciated by his constituents, to suffer from any attacks which may be made upon him by the Argus or any of its hirelings at Augusta. Let them continue to "pour out their vials of wrath" upon him; such a course will only tend to increase the deserved popularity of the man, whose influence they fear. The correspondent "O." of the Advertiser handles this "J. K. Z." correspondent of the Argus, as he deserves:

I noticed a long windy communication in the Argus by a [illegible] correspondent of J. K. Z., which is bitter as gall towards Mr Allen of Bangor. This writer says of him, that "as Speaker of the House at the last session, he satisfied the public both as to his imbecility and impudence," and that "a more pitiful slave of prejudice never [illegible] for his party." Now I have always understood that the gentleman who presides over the editorial department of the Argus, is a person of good taste, good manners, and in common parlance, a decent young man. But surely, if he admits such scurrilous articles as J. K. Z. writes, into the columns of his paper, he will lose what little reputation he has acquired for decency and good manners in the opinion of all sensible men of either party. To talk of impudence and imbecility as applied to Mr. Allen, is an outrage which we did not suppose this young editor would have perpetrated in admitting such low Billingsgate into the Argus. It is well known to all men of both political parties, that Mr Allen is neither imbecile or impudent. He had the reputation last winter, as Speaker of the House, among all parties, of discharging the duties of the Chair with much ability, courtesy and impartiality. "Imbecility and impudence!" What a blockhead this J. K. Z. must be, two of the last words in the Dictionary, which ought to be applied to Mr Allen. Whatever else Mr Allen may be, he is neither imbecile or impudent, as all can witness who has any acquaintance with him. "A pitiful slave of prejudice!" Why, you stupid fellow! to write such a phrase about a person of whom you know nothing, or if you do, you willfully state that which you know to be false.

Let us compare the honorable, high-minded course pursued by Mr. H. Hamlin last session, in his address to the Speaker, at the close of the session, with the low, mean, and dirty scribbling of J. K. Z. Mr. Hamlin rose in his place, and said "It becomes our duty, as it is our pleasure to bear high & honorable testimony to the Chair, for the acceptable manner in which its responsible, perplexing and intricate duties have been performed." At the close of his address, he again says "permit me, in behalf of the members of this House, to extend to you our highest considerations of respect, for your forbearance, courtesy and urbanity, in presiding over its deliberations." Now who is intitled to the most weight, the present Speaker of the house, or this scribbler. There can be but one opinion upon this subject. This address came from a fountain of good feeling, which can never spring up in the soul of J. K. Z. There is nothing but wormwood and gall there. Mr. Hamlin thus far as Speaker, has shown the same good feelings which prompted this address last year, and I am happy in taking this occasion to bear testimony to the courtesy and urbanity which he has shown the members of the House in his administration of the duties of the Chair. I pity from the bottom of my heart this scribbler in the Argus, and I do hope the editor, if he has any decency or sense of propriety left, will cut his acquaintance, and admit no more such low and mean communications to disgrace the columns of his paper.

Yours, O.

Fire. We understand that a two story dwelling house in [illegible], owned by Mr. Forsaith, and occupied by two families, was entirely destroyed by fire on Thursday night last. The building was insured for $1000 by the Hartford Insurance Company, which covers the loss. It was very fortunate that the night was calm, or the fire would have been extensive, as the house destroyed, was surrounded by quite a number of wooden buildings; and there being no engine in the town, the progress of the flames could not have been checked.

☞ How important it is that our State, with her vast resources, should lose no time in turning her attention to extensive Internal Improvements. Why should we, when so great advantages are to be gained by liberal appropriations for such purposes, lag behind other States, which are issuing Rail-Road script by millions? Massachusetts alone has recently issued the following amount of Rail-Road script, part of which has been disposed of in London:

For the Western Rail Road,	$2,400,000
For the Eastern do.	590,000
For the Norwich and Worcester do.	400,000
For the Andover and Haverhill do.	400,000
For the Nashua and Lowell do.	60,000
For the Old Colony do.	100,000
	$3,640,000

☞ The New-York Express of Tuesday states that the [illegible] ashore off Rockaway Beach, name not known. On Sunday she had a signal of distress flying, and had the appearance of being a ship. Only one mast, without rigging, was standing. The life-boat could not get to her in consequence of the swell. The steam ship Fulton [illegible] to sea on Monday night to tow [illegible]

[illegible] Judge Howell of Rhode Island, [illegible] Mr. Burgess, to play a joke, wrote on the lining of his hat, vacuum caput, (empty head). The hat circulated about, exciting [illegible] on every countenance except the [illegible] deliberately took it up, and repeat[illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] election, (holding up the hat) [illegible] that brother Burgess has [illegible] his [illegible] is my hat, and I have reason to believe he intends to make off with it.

Moral Cowardice. Dewy, in his Moral Views, makes the following just remarks on that distinction that is made by some people between that vice and immorality which is covered with fine and fashionable clothing, and that which is clothed in rags. How true are his remarks and how well worthy the attention of those who occupy the "front ranks of society." "Why is it, in fact, that the tone of morality in the high places of society, is so lax and so complaisant, but for want of the independent and indignant rebuke of society? There is reproach enough poured upon the drunkenness, debauchery and dishonesty of the poor man The good people who go to him can speak plainly, aye, very plainly, of his evil ways. Why is it, then, that fashionable vice is able to hold up its head, and sometimes to occupy the front ranks of society? It is because respectable persons, of hesitating and uncompromising virtue keep it in countenance! It is because timid woman stretches out her hand to a man whom she knows to be the deadliest enemy of her sex; while she turns a cold eye upon the victims he has ruined. It is because there is nobody to speak plainly in matters like these. And do you think that society is ever to be regenerated or purified under the influence of these unjust and pusillanimous compromises? I tell you never. So long as vice is suffered to be fashionable and respectable, so long as men are held to condemn it only when it is clothed in rags, there will never be any radical improvement. You may multiply temperance societies you may pile up statute books of law against gambling and dishonesty but so long as the timid homages of the fair and honored are paid to splendid iniquity, it will be all in vain so long will it be felt that the voice of the world is not against the sinner, but against the sinner's garb so long, every weapon of association, and every baton of office, will be but a missile feather against the leviathan that is wallowing in the low marshes and stagnant pools of society.

The Storm The Bath Inquirer states that "all the booms and piers above the bridge at Brunswick were carried away, and the Logs and lumber brought down within three quarters of a mile of the Merrymeeting bay bridge. Two or three mills near the south west bend, and the Bridge at that place, were swept away. It is supposed the loss of property on the Androscoggin can not fall short of $100,000.

The Oxford (Paris) Democrat says "A Saw Mill owned by Mr. Simeon Cummings, was carried away by the sudden rise and breaking up of the river, and also the bridge situated near by. Several other bridges in town we learn were injured more or less. Several buildings in this village were unroofed, blown down, and otherwise damaged. It was one of the most severe storms we ever knew. The wind blew a perfect hurricane. People in the streets had great difficulty to keep on their feet."

From the Hartford papers we learn that the recent gale was as destructive in that region as in other parts of the country. All the bridges near that town were carried away, houses unroofed, vessels driven ashore, &c. The river was twenty one feet above low-water mark.

New York. All the lower part of the city of Albany was inundated. The steamer North America sunk, and about twenty small craft.

At Brooklyn, two four story brick houses on the heights in Clinton street, were blown down.

Some eight or ten vessels are ashore on Staten Island. No less than twenty-five small schooners and sloops are high and dry on the beach near Coney Island and Gravesend, extending over a space three miles in extent. One sloop was taken up and carried into Flatlands. Mr. Caldwell, in that neighborhood, lost all his grain.

Several thousand barrels of naval stores were swept from the wharves at New York. One of the vessels stranded at the narrows has been carried down into the lower bay, where she sunk.

New Jersey. The Morris Canal was overflown, and has been more or less injured, one of its wharves carried away, and the canal boats generally stranded in the inundated meadows. The mail contractor from Jersey City to Newark was floated off with his wagon and horses, and lost three mails—one of them, a small one, to Morristown, not yet found—horses drowned.

The Newark meadows were completely inundated, and presented the appearance of a wide sea. Much of the Company's coal was swept off at Newark. At South Amboy, the damage is computed at $20,000. A car was driven furiously by the wind up an inclined plane of the Newark Railroad.

Pennsylvania. The freshet on the Schuylkill is without a parallel, being 10 feet more than its level, and two feet higher than ever known overflowing the locks of the canal washing down stores, mills, boats, &c. In the city, near the margin of the Delaware, much coal, wood, and salt was swept off, and the contents of cellars damaged.

At Manayunk, the banks of the river were completely inundated, and the dwellings of many families carried off. A dye house of Mr. Ripka was swept away. Mr. Winpenny's mill entirely destroyed, loss $10,000. The Rail-Road bridge at Spring Mills was swept away. Twenty-four canal boats are blown down the stream. Some houses on the wharves were torn away, from others the inhabitants were taken out of the second story windows by row boats along the streets. Fields of ice have been left as the water receded. Three men are reported drowned in a boat swept away. At Mr. Smith's distillery a great number of hogs were drowned, and 4000 staves swept off. The interior of the city suffered but little. Humphreys & Dutilh had 400 bbls. of flour flooded. At the coal yards, two schooners and another loaded for New-York floated up high and dry.

A letter from Allentown, Pa. states that the Lehigh river was never before so high. "The mail from Philadelphia was lost in the flood, and the driver and one horse were drowned. Thousands and tens of thousands of dollars have been lost in this [illegible] neighborhood."

[illegible] Corn Bounty certificates [illegible] returned to the Legislature, by the Town Treasurers, on or before the 10th of March next; it is necessary, therefore, that persons claiming the Bounty should lodge their certificates with the Treasurers of the town in which they reside by the first of March.

The following toast, says the Alexandria Gazette, was offered at a recent Loco Foco jollification in Clermont County, Ohio:

"Richard M. Johnson a firm spoke in the wheel of Liberty; Martin Van Buren the hub of Democracy; and Andrew Jackson, the axle-tree of the United States."

To carry out the idea, and complete the sentiment, I beg leave to add:

"Samuel W. Swartwout and William M. Price The running gears of the Sub Treasury.

Yours, &c. B.

In an article on the importance of a proper disposition of the relative pronoun and the antecedent the Albany Journal quotes the following sentence from Morse's Geography, describing Albany thirty years ago:

"It contains," says the Doctor, "about 2,000 houses, and 9,000 inhabitants, all standing with their gable end to the street!"

This is about as good as Solomon Gundy's sign in the play. Solomon exercised the ancient and honorable profession of barber and rat catcher. On his sign (a very large one) was inscribed "Solomon Gundy catches and shaves rats and gentlemen" Alex. Gaz.

Perilous Accident On Saturday last Mr. Prescott Hall, a lawyer of this city, and two other gentlemen, were on their way to Albany, in a carriage, and reached Fishkill creek during the very height of the storm. And when about to cross the creek, the carriage, horses and driver were blown into it and carried down the stream nearly two hundred yards, when the carriage was fortunately grounded on a sand bank The driver and the three gentlemen all contrived to get on the roof of the carriage, which was then half filled with water, and a considerable distance from the shore, which there was no apparent means of their reaching, as the water was entirely too deep for them to wade through it, and there was no person in sight to render them assistance.

After remaining in this comfortless situation for a short time, Mr Hall leaped into the water and swam on shore, and had then to walk a considerable distance before he could procure a boat, which he at last did, and returned to his fellow travellers, and released them from their perilous situation. LINES

WRITTEN ON VIEWING FOR THE FIRST TIME THE SHORES OF AMERICA.

BY JAMES REES.

Oh! what a glittering throng of solemn thoughts
Rush o'er my soul I gaze upon the scene,
And memory paints my boyhoods early dream
Of thy vast empire proudly and serene
Thou lifts thy head against the boiling dash
Of the strong sea wave, and the brilliant green
Of summer fruitfulness arrests my view.
And thy fields laughing in their golden sheen
Remind me of the tales of glory which hath been.

There is a calm in that broad deep blue sky,
A stillness which is dreamy and the soul
Is borne on wings of thought far, far on high
To the sun's coming in his golden light,
Streaming a beauty to the dazzled eye.
O'er the vast where peace exulting smiles
O'er her last born and plenty's bounteous hand
Scatters its gifts with smiles o'er every spot of land.

Thou second child of beauty! unto thee
Is given a solemn and a fearful gift;
The sacred task to cherish and preserve
Those living aspirations which do lift
The soul beyond itself—of liberty,
Though all thy proudest temples should be cleft
Asunder by the mad for ever free;
Untouched, untainted still guard ye your liberty.

There seems a second God in the still air,
With watchful eye surveying thy vast lands;
And o'er the populous throng he seems to bend,
And smiling, forward stretch his aged hands
Hands which have built a temple that when time
Shall rock the world's foundation still shall stand
Proud in the midst of ruin, while the crowds
Who walk thy populated wilds with one
United voice shall join to bless thy Washington.

I greet thee as an April morn the earth;
I gaze upon thee through both smiles and tears
Tears for the glorious palace of my birth,
Whose distant memory to my spirit bears
A strong, a proud imperishable worth,
Whose name is glory, and whose mighty deeds
Have stamped a recollection on my soul
That cannot fade or die, till years shall cease to roll.

And smiles for thee, America! I feel
That I could love ye both with a child's love
For its fond parents o'er my spirits steal
A dream of wild delight of future years;
It is no dream, 'tis palpable and real,
Stretched o'er the foaming billows of the sea;
Your hands are joined in union, which should be.
If prayers could make it so, long as eternity.

THE WIFE.

"I have been with thee in thy hour
Of glory and of bliss
Doubt not its memory's living power
To strengthen me through this."
Mrs. Hemans.

She was a beautiful girl when I first saw her. She was standing up at the side of her lover at the marriage altar. She was slightly pale yet ever and anon, as the ceremony proceeded, a faint tinge of crimson crossed her beautiful cheek, like the reflection of a sunset cloud upon the clear waters of a quiet lake.

Her lover, as he clasped her delicate hand within his own, gazed on her for a moment with unmingled admiration, and the warm and eloquent blood played upon his cheek, shadowing at intervals his manly forehead and "melting into beauty on his lip."

"He stood in the pride of his youth a fair form
With his feeling yet noble, his spirit yet warm
An Eagle to shelter the Dove with his wing,
An elm where the light twining tendrils might cling."

And they gave themselves to one another in the presence of Heaven, and every heart blessed them as they went on their way rejoicing in love.

Years passed on, again I saw those lovers. They were seated together where the light of a summer sunset stole through the half closed and crimson curtains, lending a richer tint to the delicate carpeting and the [illegible]. [illegible] had slightly changed the [illegible] appearance. [illegible] girlish buoyancy of the young wife had indeed given [illegible] to the grace of perfected [illegible], and her lips were somewhat paler, and a faint line of care was slightly perceptible upon her beautiful brow.

Her husband's brow, too, was marked somewhat more deeply than his years might warrant anxiety, ambition, and pride had gone over it, and left their traces upon it a silver lock was mingling with the darkness of his hair, which had been thinned around his temples almost to baldness.

He was reclining on the splendid ottoman with his face half hidden by his hand, as if he feared that the deep and troubled thoughts which oppressed him were visible upon his features.

"Edward, you are ill to night," said his wife in a low, sweet and half inquiring voice, as she laid her hand upon his own

The husband roused himself from his attitude slowly and a slight frown knit his brow.

"I am not ill," he said somewhat abruptly; and he folded his arms upon his bosom as if he wished no interruption of his evidently bitter thoughts.

Indifference from those we love is terrible to the sensitive bosom. It is as if the sun of heaven refused his wonted cheerfulness, and glared down upon us with a cold, dim, and forbidding glance

It is dreadful to feel that the only being of our love refuses to ask our sympathy that he broods over feelings which he scorns, or fears to reveal dreadful to watch the convulsive feature and the gloomy brow the indefinable shadows of hidden emotions the involuntary signs of a sorrow in which we are forbidden to participate and whose character we cannot know.

The wife essayed once more.

"Edward," said she slowly, mildly and affectionately, "the time has been, when you were willing to confide your secret joys and sorrows to one who has never I trust, betrayed your confidence. Why then, my dear Edward, is this cruel reserve? You are troubled, and yet you refuse to tell me the cause."

Something of returning tenderness softened for an instant the cold severity of the husband's features, but it passed away and a bitter smile was his only reply.

Time passed on, and the twain were separated from each other.

The husband sat gloomily and alone in the damp cell of a dungeon. He had followed ambition as his god, and had fallen in his high career He had mingled with men whom his heart loathed he had sought out the fierce and wronged spirits of his land, and had breathed into them the madness of revenge.

He had drawn his sword against his country, he had fanned rebellion to a flame, which had been quenched in human blood.

He had fallen miserably fallen and he had been doomed to die the death of a traitor.

It was his last night of life! To-morrow was the day appointed for his execution. He saw the sun sink behind the green hills of the west, as he sat by the dim grate of his dungeon, with a feeling of unutterable horror. He felt that it was the last sun that would set to him. It would cast its next level and sunset rays upon his grave upon the grave of a dishonored traitor!

The door of his dungeon opened, and a light form threw herself into his arms. The softened light of sunset fell upon the pale brow and wasted cheek of his once beautiful wife.

"Edward my dear Edward," she said, "I have come to save you. I have reached you, after a thousand difficulties, and I thank God that my purpose is nearly accomplished."

Misfortune had softened the proud heart of manhood, and as the husband pressed his pale wife to his bosom, a tear trembled on his eyelash.

"I have not deserved this kindness," he murmured in the chocked tones of convulsive agony.

"Edward," said his wife, in an earnest, but faint, fearful debility, "we have not a moment to lose. By an exchange of garments you will be enabled to pass out unnoticed. Haste, or we may be too late Fear nothing for me, I am a woman, and they will not injure me for my efforts in behalf of a husband dearer to me than life itself."

"But, Margaret," said the husband, "you look sadly ill. You cannot breathe the air of this dreadful cell."

"Oh, speak not of me, my dearest Edward," said the devoted woman. "I can endure every thing for your sake. Haste, Edward haste, and all will be well," and she aided with a trembling hand to disguise the proud form of her husband in female garb.

"Farewell my love, my preserver" whispered the husband in the ear of his disguised wife, as the officer sternly reminded the supposed lady that the time allotted for her visit had expired.

"Farewell, we shall meet again," responded his wife and the husband passed out unsuspected, and escaped the enemies of his life.

They did meet again that wife and husband but only as the dead meet in the awful communings of another world. Affection had borne up her exhausted spirit, until the last great purpose of her exertions was accomplished in the safety of her husband and when the bell tolled on the morn, and the prisoner's cell was opened, the gaoler found wrapped in the habiliments of their destined victim, the pale but still beautiful corse of the devoted Wife!

For the Whig and Courier.

A GOOD MOVE.

A petition is circulating in this city, praying the legislature to enact a law making the venders of ardent spirits liable to maintain all the paupers which were made so by their traffic, provided the cause of their pauperism can directly be traced to the venders. This is just and reasonable. If men will persist in poisoning their neighbors for their private interest, so that they become intemperate and a city or town charge, why should they not be compelled to maintain those whom they have thus brought to pauperism?

To the Hon. Court of County Commissioners for the County of Penobscot, to be holden at Bangor on the first Tuesday of August A.D. 1838.

THE subscribers, inhabitants of the County of Penobscot, respectfully show, That the great and increasing travel between the Counties of Penobscot, Waldo, Lincoln and the Southern sections of Kennebec, has induced very extensive and important improvements on the line of road between the south line of Hampden and Augusta; and is strongly urging its claims upon this County for corresponding improvements upon that part of the route which lies within our limits; That the present travelled road from Hampden Lower Corner to the south line of this County, at the termination of the County road in Waldo, is unnecessarily crooked and circuitous and that a straight road between the points last described will be of great public convenience.

Wherefore, they most respectfully request this Hon. Court to view and lay out and establish a County Road on the shortest practicable line from the Lower Corner in Hampden to the commencement of the County road at the north line of the County of Waldo, near the farm of Mr. Mercie.

Signed by ISAAC HOPKINS, and 38 others.

RAIL-ROAD BRIDGE.

TO LUMBERERS, &c.

PROPOSALS will be received by the subscribers, till the 15th of February next, for furnishing the materials and labor for erecting a Rail-Road Bridge over Merrimack River, at Haverhill, Mass. The bridge is to be constructed upon the principle of "Town's Patent Trellis Suspension Bridge," and to consist of five spans of 170 feet each, resting on four piers and two abutments of Stone masonry. The bottom of the wood work will be 26 feet above low water mark.

The masonry, which must be built according to plans and specifications furnished by the Engineer, will amount to about 3300 cubic yards; about 1500 yards of which will be dimension stone. These last will be rough split, and have their beds and builds dressed to insure a fair bearing. They will be laid in good hydraulic cement.

The superstructure which is also to be built according to plans and particular specifications to be furnished by the Engineer, will contain about 500,000 feet of White Pine Lumber, which must be sound, and free from shakes and large knots; and must be cut according to dimensions to be furnished on application as above.

Separate proposals will be received for the following divisions of the work; 1. For furnishing the dimension stone by the cubic yard, dressed as above stated, and delivered on the ground in the places to be designated by the subscribers. 2. For furnishing the rough stone by the cubic yard; to be delivered as above. 3. For laying the abutments and piers by the cubic yard; the company furnishing the lime for the cement. 4. For furnishing the Lumber per M delivered on the bank of the River opposite the location of the bridge. 5. For furnishing 19,000 White Oak Treenails according to a bill which will be furnished. 6. For building and completing the wood work of the Bridge according to the plans and specifications.

The proposals must state in what time the several divisions of the work can be accomplished. Other things being equal, the earliest time will be preferred, as the agents of the road are desirous of completing the work with all convenient despatch.

Plans of the work may be seen, and particular specifications furnished on application to the Engineer at Haverhill, and further information may also be obtained by applying to the President of the Company at Andover.

GENUINE BUFFALO OIL.

THE HAIR! THE HAIR! THE HAIR!

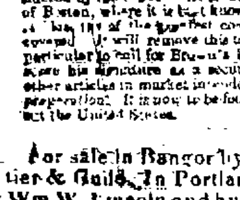

THE greatest ornament to the human body is a splendid head of hair. It has recently been discovered that the genuine Buffalo's Oil is a sovereign remedy for baldness, prevents the hair from coming off, promotes the growth, continues the luxuriance, and improves the beauty. It is far superior to any other animal or vegetable oil, and in case of fever, where the hair becomes dry and begins to fall off, there is no application more effectual in restoring its beauty and rendering it in a healthy state.

It is put up at a low price, (37 1-2 cents) that all classes can have access to it. None genuine unless put up in flat bottles, with HAIR OIL impressed in the glass. Also to prevent imposition, it will be signed by the Proprietor, Wm. Brown, 481 Washington, corner of Eliot Street, Boston.

VALUABLE CERTIFICATES,

EVANS'

CAMOMILE AND APERIENT PILLS.

THE DIFFERENCE.

IT cannot be denied that whilst many medicines which are recommended to the public, have not even the negative merit of harmlessness, there are others which it would be great injustice indeed, and suicidal prejudice to involve untried, in a common condemnation. And when a medicine comes endorsed with all the great names that have adorned the annals of the medical profession, and warranted by the seal and signature of long and uniform success, its proprietor makes no unreasonable demand upon the public confidence, when he claims for it a superior consideration.

The Camomile Preparation by Dr. Wm. Evans is undeniably entitled to this enviable distinction, for whilst no medical authority in existence condemns it, every medical practitioner that is acquainted with it, freely acknowledges its pre-eminent virtues and that the latter should do so in opposition to their personal interests, must be attributed either to their candor and love of truth, or to their unwillingness to fly in the face of all observation, and the testimony of thousands.

Dr. W. Evans does not pretend that his Camomile Tonic Pills will cure all diseases. He frankly and conscientiously admits that they will not. He lays no claim to the discovery of the "Philosopher's Stone," and wishes nobody to believe that he sells the "Elixir of Life," but he does say, and he does believe, and he can prove, that in debility and impaired constitution; in Nervous diseases of all kinds; in weakness of the digestive organs, in incipient consumptions, whether of the lungs or the liver; in the dreadful debility occasioned by the use of purgatives, in palsy, rheumatism; (more especially) in the sickness incident to mothers, and to females of relaxed nerves; in every case of delirium tremens, or that disease which is brought on by intemperance; in the wretched horrors of body and mind which accrue from occasional inebriety; loss of appetite, langor, melancholy, pains in the head, limbs, or side; in corrupt sallow, and uncomely complexion, caused by the bad state of the fluids—in all these cases: and in others mentioned in the bills of directions given with his medicines, HE DOES SAY, that the Camomile Tonic Pills, interchanged occasionally with his Aperient Family Pills, (the best known) which are sold with them, will effect immediate relief; and if used but for a fair period of trial a perfect cure. This much is placed beyond a doubt by daily testimonies which would be given on oath, and for this much Dr. W. Evans can conscientiously request confidence. He therefore need only add that his Camomile Tonic Pills, together with his excellent Family Aperient Pills, can be obtained wholesale or retail, at No. 7. Division street near Chatham square, N. York, and his authorized agents in town and country.

Other and more conclusive demonstrations of the efficacy of Dr. Evans' Camomile Preparation and Aperient Medicines, are submitted by the following important and extraordinary cures effected by their highly medicinal qualities; all of which may be seen at Dr. Wm. Evans' Medical Office, No. 7, Division street. One or two of these he herewith respectfully gives to a discriminating public.

Dr. Wm. Evans Sir, be pleased to receive the thanks of one who has been a great sufferer for several years, for the great benefits she has received from the virtues of your inestimable Camomile Pills. She has suffered with pain and distress in the head, a lightness across the head, a lightness across the stomach, shortness of breath, and palpitation of the heart; exercise would almost overcome her; but since using your Camomile Tonic Pills, her complaints are removed she is able to exercise without fatigue, and she is happy to say, can enjoy life comfortably again.

Newark, July 13, 1836 Dear Sir, for four years I have been so unwell that I was unable to attend to my business, and for the last 4 or 5 months was confined in my room, my complaints were rheumatism, pains in my stomach, indigestion and loss of appetite, with continued pain and dizziness in my head; I used different kinds of medicines without effect; until I commenced taking your invaluable Camomile and Aperient Pills; their beneficial effects upon me astonish all who knew my situation. In a few days I shall be at your office to express my gratitude to you in person. In the mean time I subscribe myself your most ob't serv't,
B. S. JARVIS, 13 Centre st.
Dr. Wm. Evans.

Extract of a letter from Jonas Snyder, Postmaster, Knoxville, Pa. to Dr. Wm. Evans. Among several cases "an elderly lady who had been 25 yrs. afflicted with nervous hypochondria, debility, &c. that for the last 3 years she constantly received medical aid from a respectable physician, but the pressure and pain on her heart and breast, and especially in her left side, remained immovable, attended at long intervals with weakness in her head and on her mind keeping her discouraged to undertake any thing. In May she commenced using Dr W. Evans' Camomile and Family Aperient Pills, according to the direction accompanying them. A reaction took place; the pains and pressure in her body was removed, her mind became clear and strong; her spirits perfectly good, and up to this time is in all respects restored to health, which for the last 10 years she has not enjoyed."
Sept 2 1836. JONAS SNYDER.

ON LOW-SPIRITS. Low spirits is a certain state of the mind, accompanied by indigestion, wherein the greatest evils are apprehended upon the slightest grounds, and the worst consequences imagined. Ancient writers supposed this disease to be confined to those particular regions of the abdomen technically called hypochondria, which are situated on the right or left side of that cavity, whence comes the name hypochondriesis.

SYMPTOMS. The common corporeal symptoms are flatulency in the stomach or bowels, acrid eructations, costiveness, spasmodic pains, giddiness, dimness of sight, palpitations, and often an utter inability of fixing the attention upon any subject of importance, or engaging in any thing that demands vigor or courage. Also languidness; the mind becomes irritable, thoughtful, desponding, melancholy and dejected, accompanied with a total derangement of the nervous system. The mental feelings and peculiar train of ideas that haunt the imagination and overwhelm the judgment exhibit an infinite diversity. The wisest and best of men are as open to this affliction as the weakest.

CAUSES. A sedentary life of any kind, especially severe study, protracted to a late hour in the night, and rarely relieved by social intercourse, or exercise, a dissolute habit, great excess in eating and drinking, the immoderate use of mercury, violent purgatives, the suppression of some habitual discharge, or long continued eruption; relaxation or debility of one or more important organs within abdomen, is frequent cause.

TREATMENT The principal objects of treatment are, to remove indigestion, to strengthen the body, and to eliven the spirits, which may be promoted by exercise, early hours, regular meals and pleasant conversation. The bowels (if costive) being carefully regulated by the occasional use of a mild aperient. We know nothing better calculated to obtain this end, than Dr. Wm. Evans' Aperient Pills—being mild and certain in their operation. The bowels being once cleansed, his inestimable Camomile Pills, (which are tonic, anodyne, & anti-spasmodic) are an infallible remedy, & without dispute have proved a great blessing to the numerous public.

Some physicians have recommeded a free use of mercury but it should not be resorted to; as in many cases it will greatly aggravate symptoms.

"PUBLIC OPINION IS SELDOM WRONG." Junius.

PUBLIC OPINION. Public opinion is perhaps the only unerring guide from whose decision there is no appeal; and was there ever such a manifestation of its approval, as there is with Brandreth's Vegetable Universal Pills? Step by step has this medicine wormed itself into favor, in spite of corruption and ... Triumphant has been its progress to its present sphere of extensive usefulness. It has surmounted obstacles before which quackery sinks paralyzed and has gained for itself a reputation which neither Physicians, nor flippant, sordid, counterfeiting apothecaries can ever injure. These charlatans, nevertheless, do assail it with the malignant shafts of their despicable envy, and which rebounds upon themselves with a power each day on the increase, until they themselves will be covered with the slime of their own manufacturing. They can no more injure the reputation of Brandreth's Pills than they can put their hand upon the sun;

"Or with polluted finger tarnish it."

If to discover the cause and nature of disease—if to make a medicine universal in its powers, and universal in its curative effects upon every kind of malady, proved by the cures performed upon thousands of persons, restored to the blessings of health—if to do these things be praiseworthy, then is Dr. Benjamin Brandreth entitled to the praise of this and each succeeding generation. By the means he points out, chronic infirmities and premature death are prevented. What are the means? Simply Vegetable Purgation, and it is now an established fact that there is no other way by which a REAL CURE can be effected.

THE ONLY Office in Boston for Dr. BRANDRETH'S VEGETABLE UNIVERSAL PILLS.

How to be secure from Counterfeit Pills purporting to be Brandreth's Pills.

STOREKEEPERS' SECURITY. All persons who are authorized to travel for Doctor Benjamin Brandreth have invariably the power of attorney from him proved before the Clerk of the County of New-York. Without this is exhibited, touch, taste, nor handle.

STILL FURTHER, Dr. Brandreth's Travellers never require the money in advance. Dr. B's terms being Medicine to be paid for when sold.

SECURITY TO THE PUBLIC Observe that the certificate is dated this year, Eighteen hundred and thirty eight, in figures, and see that such figures are engraved, not written.

Inquire whether the power of attorney was seen when the Pills were left, &c.

All Pills having Wm. Brandreth on the label George Hodgkinson on the edge, are counterfeits, made to Deceive the Public and evade the law at the same time.

These, and indeed ALL counterfeit Pills, if used according to the direction which accompany my Pills, are calculated to destroy life. They are made by men having no standing or respectability, without habitation or name, perfectly careless of consequences, provided money is obtained. Extract from Dr. B's. address to citizens of U. S.

And be careful to remember that I have never authorized any Doctor, Druggist, Apothecary or Pedlar in the U. S. to sell my pills. These contemptible persons universally sell counterfeits, and that all Tradesmen who are made agents have each of them a copperplate certificate of agency, signed in writing with a pen by me; and which certificate requires renewal every twelve months, it being no guarantee for more than one year from date observe the date is not written, it is engraved.
